Everyone welcome

In Thailand the people greatly love and admire their King Bhumibol (Rama IX), who has led them for over 60 years. To display their respect for the king, the Thai people wear bright yellow shirts every Monday, because yellow is the official colour of the king.

As we seek to live for our King, the Lord Jesus Christ, we should also show our colours of allegiance and appreciation for all He has done for us. But how? What are the “colours” that declare to the world that we serve the King of kings and Lord of lords?

The night before His crucifixion, Jesus told us what our “colours” should be when He said, “By this all will know that you are My disciples, if you have love for one another” (John 13:35). This tells us that when we display Christ’s love for our fellow believers, it is more than just kindness or care: it is one of the most tangible ways we can show our love and devotion for the Saviour. Furthermore, Jesus commands us to love our neighbour and yes, also our enemies. Our love, like Christ’s, is not to be limited but should embrace all.

So let’s be sure to show our colours. That will honour our King before a watching world.
